look at events!

Tuesday, February 16, 1971, marked a new activity at Williamsport High-Parent Appreciation Night. It was instituted by the Athletic Department in order to honor the parents and families of those associated with high school basketball. The parents of ball players, cheerleaders, and managers were paraded at halftime of the Coal Creek game. The seniors--a manager, a statistician, two cheerleaders and five Varsity ball players--were also honored.

Once again, the PTO Carnival was a variety of action. There were booths for chancing away all your money and a country store where all sorts of goodies could be had. The King and Queen Contest ended with the Junior class on top, represented by John Jacks and Barb Douglas.

Awards night was exciting. Several trophies were presented to athletes who surpassed the average in their efforts and determination. These guys met the challenge.

Homecoming--competition, a crown, a kiss, roses. Kathy, her crown, her roses, and a victory over Attica.

student council, national honor society

The Student Council (right) provides numerous services for WHS, such as conducting Homecoming and cheerleader elections and handling a juke box at noon. Several new rules, one being "slacks for girls", were enacted, and a new constitution was created.

With six new members inducted in the spring of 1970, the National Honor Society (below) grew to twelve members. These people are important to WHS.

art and science clubs

The Science Club, under the direction of Mr. Burgess, was composed of junior high students. Action consisted of movies and demonstrations. Their main activity was a trip to the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

Mr. Thayer's artists took part in one major activity. In late March, the Art Club visited the Chicago Museum of Art, where they saw many interesting exhibits.

SCIENCE CLUB FRONT ROW: Mr. Burgess--sponsor, Vicki Britton, Sherry Facret, Debbie Shackelford, Betty Jones, Cindy Bridgewater, Sue Bryant. SECOND ROW: Jeff Jernagen, Steve Haddock, James Shackelford, John Walters, David Farris, Ronnie Purple, Bob White, Tim Howard, Burton Turley. BACK ROW: Brad Johnson, Buster Williams, Jerry Henry, Joe Hill, Gerald Williams, Jay Freeland, Danny Cole, Tom Bridgewater, Joe Smith.

Does our future lie in the hands of these people? If so, they are well prepared to handle it. The Future Business Leaders of America, sponsored by Mr. Stroud, and the Future Teachers of America, led by Mr. Holobek, are gaining practice for their future goals as members of these organizations.

The FBLA is a new organization at WHS. It consists of students interested in business as a career.

The FTA has been very involved in the life of the school. On a number of occasions, members took over classes while teachers were out, in this way gaining practical experience.

FBLA: Diane Griffis, Loretta Balser, Jill Schmid, Dewana Dawson, Mari Dobbels, Deb Lister, Lisa Rolan, Debi Talbott, Mr. Stroud, sponsor.

With the help of Mr. Steele these students have taken part in several activities and plan many more. Hopefully, they are improving the W.H.S. relations with the world today.

(right) At W.H.S. there is a room that is lined with books. These books are untouched by the master minds but the pages are soiled and grimed by the students who are the future's minds. The room, presided by Mrs. Dunn, serves as a place of learning and entertainment.

What makes a B-team cheerleader? Energy, practice, lungs of iron, and an eye for the future. Some of the problems that came up this year were injuries, uniforms, and thinking up new five-girl formations. These girls really worked to infect the cheerblock with their spirit. And they succeeded.

The Varsity cheerleaders were a busy group of girls. They sold pennants and red-and-white shakers to keep school spirit high. They also held an egg sale, and a cheerleading workshop for our future cheerleaders. The money earned from these activities went to purchase new uniforms.

Not only were they busy earning money, they also led the Pep Club at Varsity basketball games. This was a bunch that really jumped.

look at academics

Between my ears, that's where I'm at;
just watching the world
watch me back .

Mary Beth Dickey

Academics at Williamsport High is a complex area. Besides books and the dry learning process, it means the extra ways by which we learn. Academics involves creating a dress from a few yards of materials, stirring up a scientific concoction in the lab or totaling a column for book-keeping. Studying is not a totally evil creature, but it is generally considered unbearable without things like lab projects and field trips. Math, science and English are necessary throughout everyone's future and are stressed and have the most extensive curriculums at Bingy. The academics at WHS are aimed at preparing us for the various futures we possess.

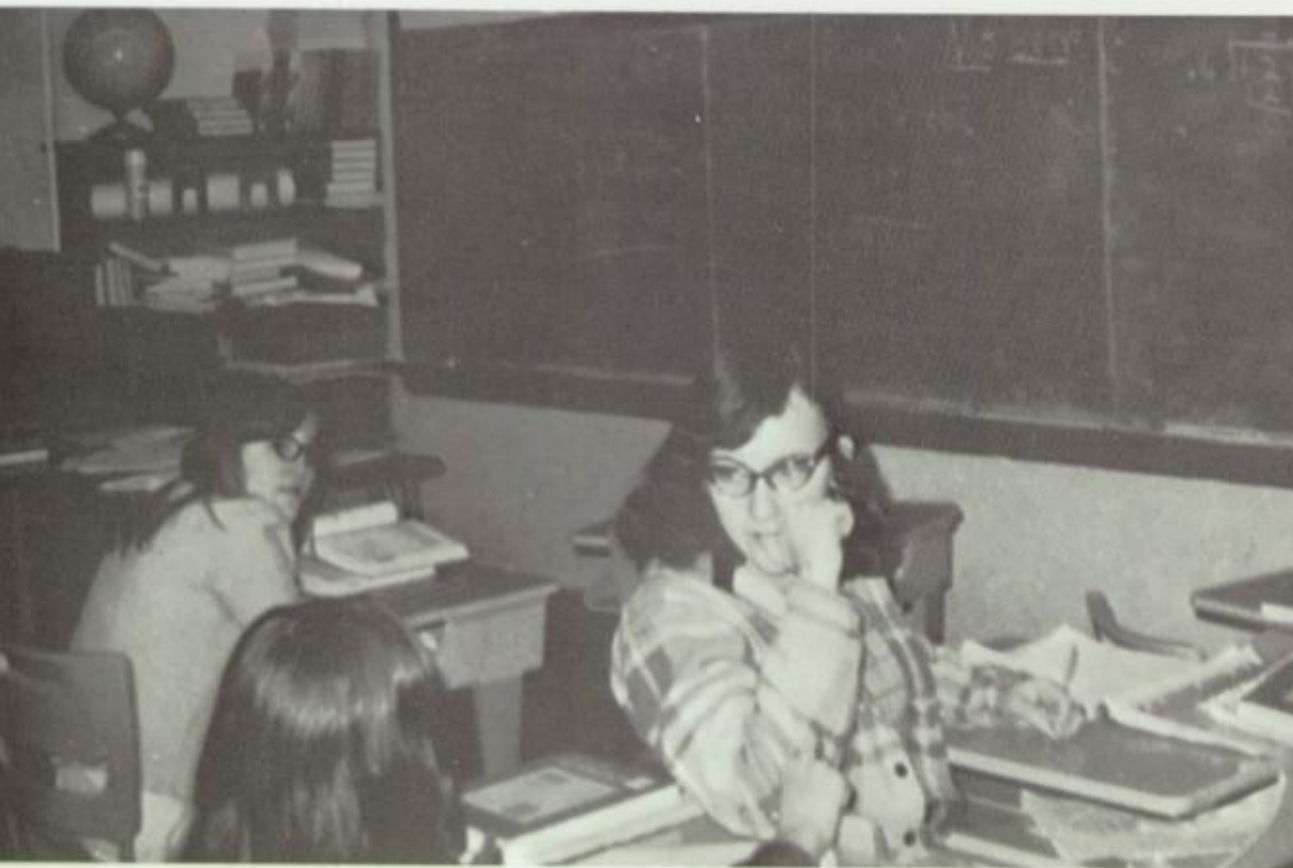

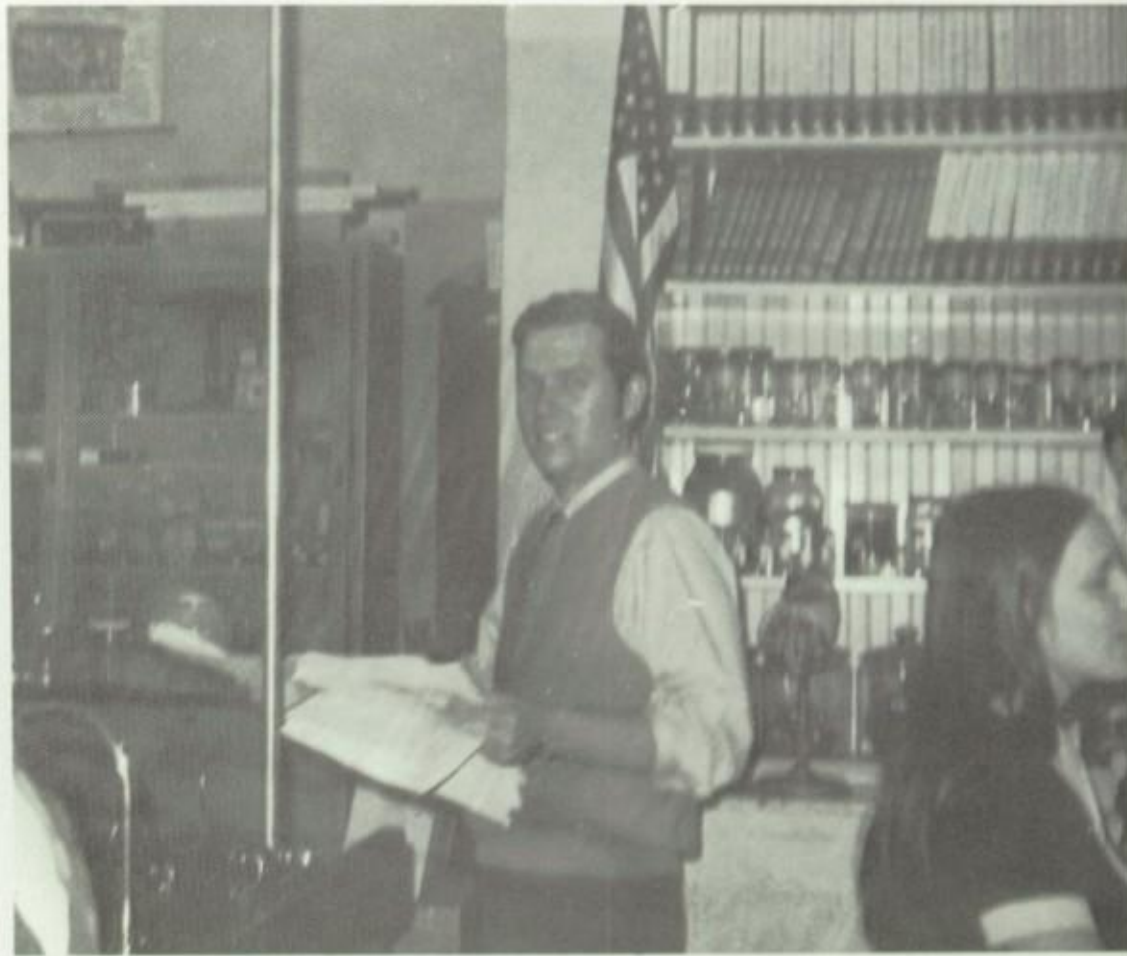

History is defined as the knowledge or study of the recorded past. For the teachers, it may be knowledge, but for the students it is more than study. It's confusion.

Freshman Civics is fairly new on the curriculum, but they have been very active. In the fall, they held a mock election for state candidates. Second semester they followed the stocks.

Learning the ins and outs of the English language can be difficult and frustrating, but this year we were fortunate enough to have three outstanding teachers instructing us in grammar, literature, and creative writing.

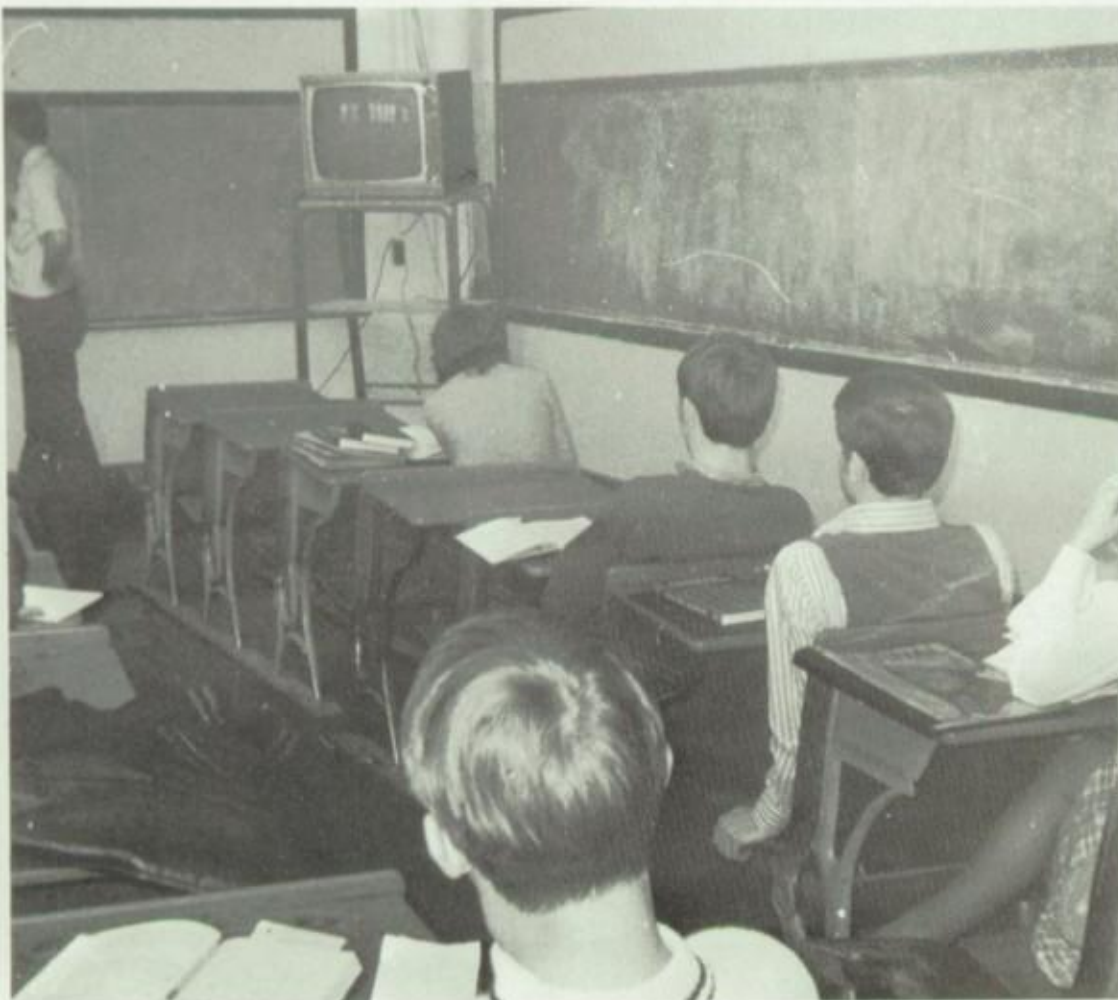

For the Freshman, science is Biology I; dissecting worms, fish, and other interesting species.

For the Sophomore, it is relief since you only have one semester, and that's Health.

For the Junior it is the fun of learning the symbols of 103 elements, and then putting them together so that you get a nice, sweet, simple (?), balanced equation.

For the Senior, science is the excitement of learning about physics.

For the teacher, it is the hope that maybe just one person understands what you're talking about.

Math can't be written about, it can only be computed or figured or fussed over:

Mr. Bryant plus Mr. Leckrone plus Mr. Burgess equals WHS math masters.

Room 2 times the assembly times Room 101 times Room 204 equals math facilities.

1971 divided by the probable number of math lovers at WHS equals undefined.

While the older kids were learning to keep books, the younger kids were learning to read books. They also did math problems, played outside, and drank milk. They even had a SERENDIPITY CIRCUS!

Mr. Stroud had complete charge of the Business Department. Courses included General Business, Office Practice, Short-hand, Bookkeeping, and typing.

Typewriters clacked in a different place. They were moved down to Room 13 to give typists more space.

Shop, or Industrial Arts, was another creative course. It involved book study, and working with wood, among other things. The students made shelves, chests, and even bowls from wood.

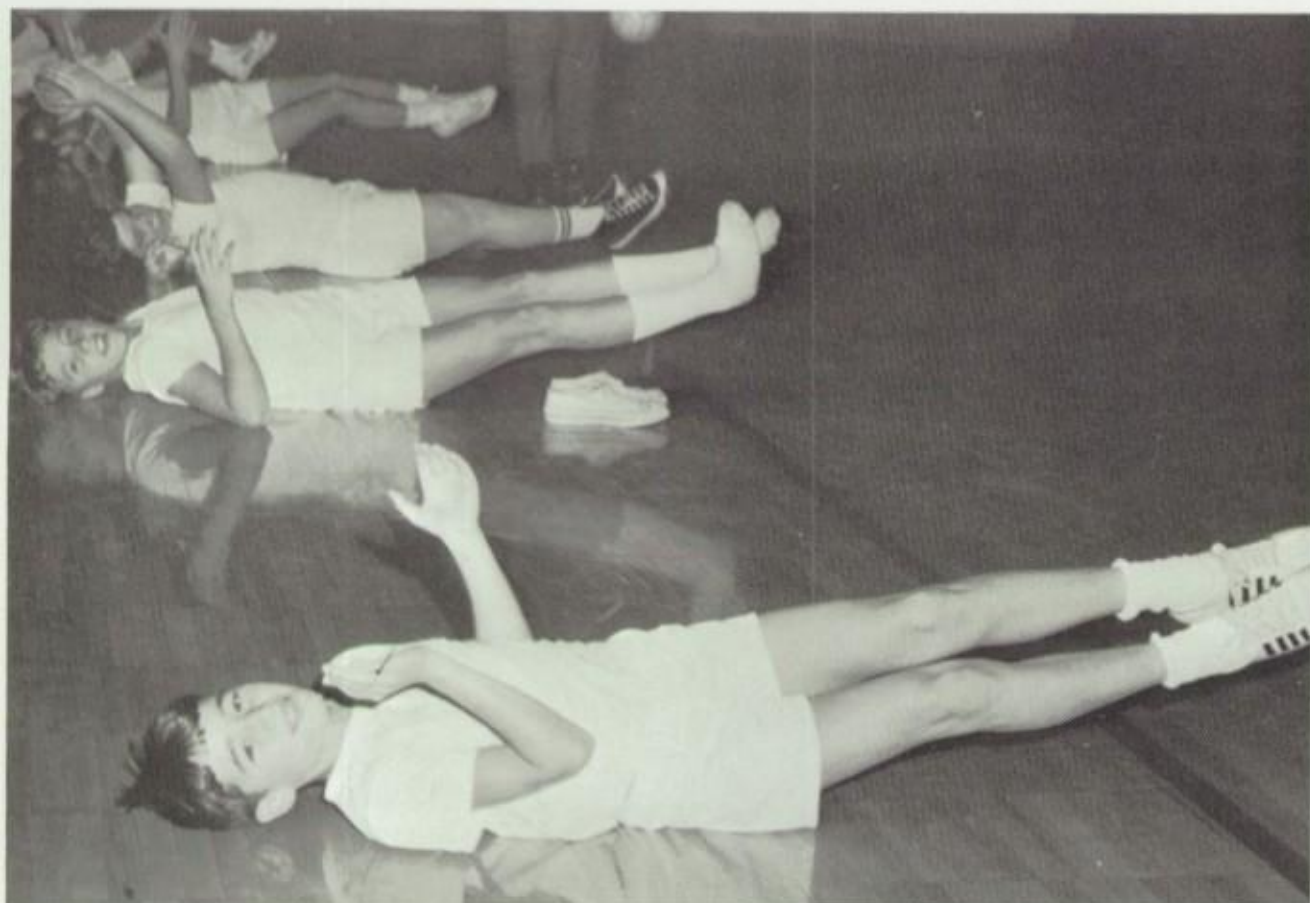

Art involves painting, drawing, pottery, papier mache, mosaics, linoleum, and SHADING.

Some art students were reluctantly treated to several weeks of art history, with free periods to work on art projects which included oil paintings, and work in clay.

Mr. Holobek and Mr. Sims had charge of the boys' phys. ed., and Mrs. Foster had the girls', except for Advanced P.E., which Mr. Holobek taught.

Mrs. Hunter guided the first and second grades in their gym class.

What word spelled backwards equals a Bingy spring sport? No. it's not llabesab, it's flog.

Golfers at WHS enjoyed their second season. They went undefeated for their first six matches, then fell to Attica on their course. All five men on the team received their letters, and three of them will be returning next fall.

cross coun- try and baseball

Look-on the horizon--it's Bill McAdams! This was the story of the Cross Country squad. The team had a fair season. They picked up some places, some shows, and some unmentionables. Mr. Sims was the commander of the sprinters.

Out-Out-Out-Out-Out! The word resounds through the dusty air when it is echoed over you. Mr. Sims' band of baseballers worked out during the April-May-June series of matches with area teams.

Basketball is more than running up and down a hard-wood floor. It's plans and plays, losing shoes and contacts, crying when Covington is finally stopped, sectional drawings, giving talks at pep rallies, letter jackets, breaking training, statistics. It's mostly work; teamwork. We did pretty well.

The reserve Bombers had a hard season. Plagued with problems such as injuries and, shall we say, academic adversity, the B-team ended with a single win and seventeen losses. The bright spot for the B-team came on January 9 when the Linden Bulldogs fell to the Bombers.

Despite the record, Williamsport's secondary squad produced several sharp-looking players who will prove valuable on the Varsity.

Mr. Sims, a newcomer to W.H.S., worked a great deal to build up his Bombers.

BACK ROW: Lennie Sells, Mike Rainey, Todd Wagner, Bill McAdams, Dan Howard, Don Abel.

The 1971 Bombers were consistently inconsistent. Shooting accuracy varied as much as rebounding ability.

The Varsity put together enough good games to come out with a 15 and 8 record.

Throughout the season the Bombers hit peaks of glory (winning over the 17 and 0 Covington Trojans) and depths of defeat (losing to Turkey Run in their Invitational final).

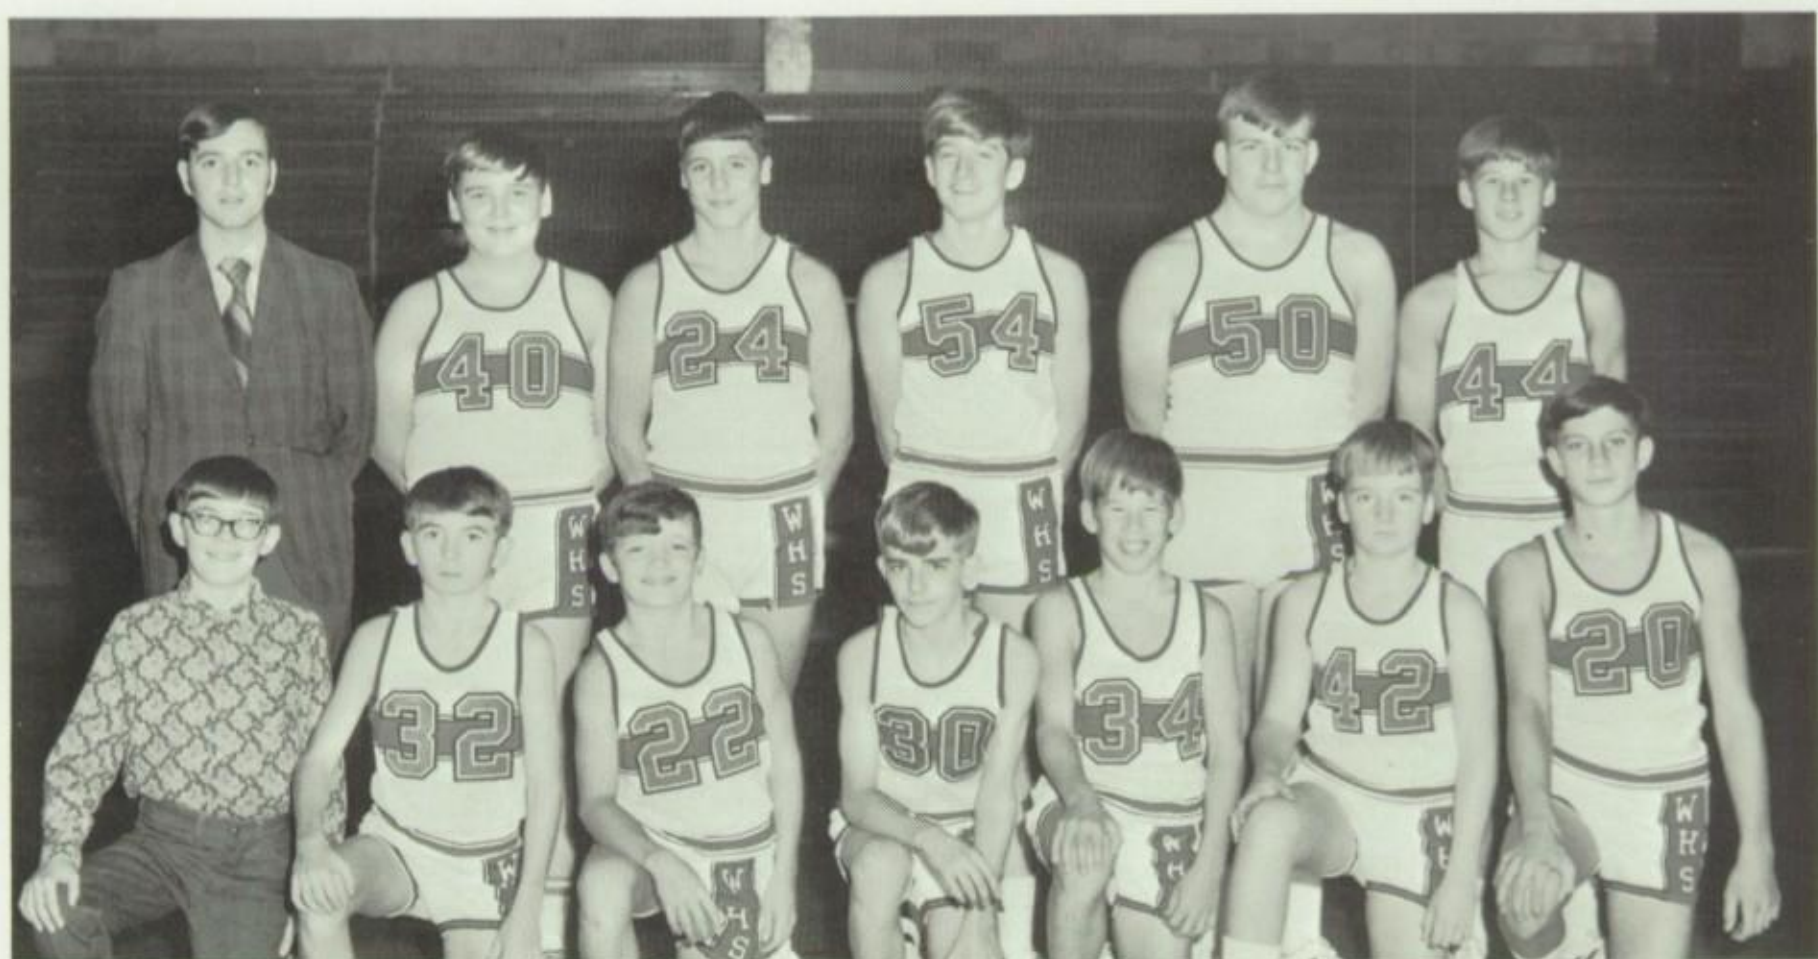

Fountain Central fell to WHS for the first time ever 68 to 61. Having lost 6 of their last 9 games, the Bombers took haughty Covington in overtime, 83 to 82.

With a favorable Sectional draw, the Bombers raced past Attica and gained revenge over Turkey Run, making the way to the finals the first time since 1965. A turned-on Covington team won, 90 to 65.

New was the key word for the Varsity. A new coaching staff, new uniforms, and a new spirit rode with Bingy all season. Mr. Holobek stressed togetherness and it paid off.

Teachers are a necessary (?) part of life at Bingy. After all, what would life be like without Business and History and English and Math and Home Ec. and Shop? FUN! Oh well, teachers can be fun too.

Teachers are lots of fun when they forget to give an assignment or call off a test or get off the subject--with a student's help. Of course, there are times when they give tests and quizzes and gobs of homework. But they teach. And we learn. And we all survive.

Even though Mrs. Pearson is only in her office part-time, she is a valuable part of the school. She has often saved a student who stayed up late "studying" by offering her cot.

ABOVE: Mrs. Jonora Pearson, school nurse.

BELOW: Mrs. Reitz, Mrs. Rothrock, Mrs. Sipes, Mrs. Wesley, and Mrs. Meyers; cooks.

The clanging of pots and the grinding sound of beaters are common sounds coming from the cafeteria, not to mention the occasional voices of Mrs. Reitz, the head cook, and her helpers. Helpers is what she needs too, to feed the herd of kids that kill themselves to get to the front of the lunchline, and then just eat a bite or two and grab a good laugh.

Before most students begin their day, Mr. May sets out on his daily journey. The gravel roads echo with the grade-school chatter as Bob calmly listens to the radio. As the school comes into view, one wonders how he does it.

eighth grade graduation

There are some advantages to being an eighth grader. For one, you're no longer a seventh grader; the upperclassmen are now a little less mean to you. For another, you're at the nice middle stage of almost being in high school, and lucky enough to be out of grade school. And of course you get to graduate. Perhaps on May 21st many of the eighth grade girls did look like pretty young women, and the eighth grade boys didn't look like boys anymore. And we all grew up a little.

Being a Freshman has often been described as a "disease" by upperclassmen, but these people look pretty healthy. They were almost eliminated by the Seniors during initiation, but most of them survived.

Besides classes, the Freshmen had a number of other activities, among them the usual class parties. There were a number of them involved in track, baseball, and basketball, as well as cheerleading. Some of the girls organized tumbling for Friday afternoons. Some of them, like Karen, REALLY tumbled.

Not only does being a Freshman mean doing things right, it also means doing things wrong, like forgetting your tie on Tie Day, then substituting your wool scarf. Itchy, huh?

The Sophomore class started out the year in their unusual energetic style. Breaking the tradition of having rectangle class rings, the Class of 1973 ordered round rings, and anxiously awaited their arrival and the approval of the upper-classmen.

Throughout the year the class engaged in some money-making projects such as washing merchants' windows in the business district. This profit was added to the growing treasury for next year's prom.

During second semester, the class was introduced to advanced P.E.--bowling, golf, tennis, volleyball, and some of the girls had shop.

Juniors Have Lots of Confidence in Themselves.

After eleven years of planning, it was hard for the Juniors to realize that they were actually going to have their very own prom.

On May 1st, Jour du Mai became a reality. The gym didn't look like a basketball court anymore. White columns, green hedges, flowers, a May pole, and a colorful fountain created a perfect, and very romantic, setting.

The Juniors were proud to present their prom to the Seniors of '71.

PUBLIC NOTICE:

The 1972 Senior year has been cancelled due to the lack of interest of the participants

...

The Juniors were the busiest class, even if they do procrastinate a little. We planned several bake sales but only one was held. The Junior Prom had been planned months ahead of time (7th grade), but by our Junior year the plans had changed and chaos prevailed.

Another of the activities the Juniors had was the concession stand. This was another center of confusion.

In fact, practically anywhere the Juniors go, confusion follows. Right, Mr. Thayer? Right, Mrs. McHugh? Right, Mr. Leckrone? Right, Mr. Steele? Right, Mr. Burgess?

Right.

We wonder if it's really important to look back through school and preserve the memories that are brought into our minds. We will remember more than work and book drudgery. We'll look upon the important years of growing up; what memories we do have . . . like--

Lance's letter was "Crank Letter of the Day" on WLS.

Janice dropped a keg of manganese on her foot in Mrs. Roberts' chemistry class.

As seventh graders, our noble basketball players helped win the bi-county junior-high journey.

Of course, all the girls have recollections of un-slumber parties, where some of the neatest pranks ever were pulled on the one unsuspecting sleeper.

Some days were spent far away from school, like the opening day of hunting season, or the morning of sectional drawings.

Hazen, Don Reitz, Loretta, Rex, Mark, and Rick all have moments to think about, compliments of Layton's Star Market.

These various rememories* create a real unity among us, for we are a sole being, actually; we are the Seniors of Seventy-one.

The countdown began at least in November. By May 14th, the Seniors were running in high gear. The decorations and chairs were set up by a chosen few on an extremely warm Saturday. Finally Sunday crept onto the calendar, and around 1:30 p.m. a flurry of red and black ran up the gymnasium walk. Twenty-five minutes after two, Baccalaureate was over and twenty-three sweaty Seniors limped out, anticipating the 8:00 o'clock segment.

Commencement activities were very "Pomp and Circumstance"-y. Speeches and diplomas and processions and tears and handshakes and haste were prevalent.

And anti-climax by 10:00, but it was worth it!

at last.

 out for flying golf balls.
 Randy
 P.S. May you forever be a duffer!

Ed -
 Be cool -
 Be calm -
 Be yourself -
 God Bless,
 Dan McHugh

Hullo there Turning, Every time I see you my crotch hurts. You are also a damn good football player.

Pull, Pull
 John

Hi dugan
 So a real good friend. I hope as we get older the seniors don't beat up on us.
 stay cool man
 Cool. Jim

Ed
 Hi best 75 is the 74 is down

Russ
 Ed, one of the nice boys I know. Be good.
 Good-luck in the future.
 Love ya,
 DIANE

Love, Bobbi

Ed, You've always been a very good friend even when you were young. Always that. Always are for a good way. I don't other people think it's way. I think you should not be as sweet as you are for I think you are a very good friend. Always love you
 Ed.

Ed.
To one of the best cross country runners in the history of Bingham May you live forever. Good luck
Tim

Autographs

Ed, Remember those times at Paula's. HA! HA!
You're a good kid and you dress neat!
A Junior Becky Butler
"23"

Ed,
To a real nice guy in the sophomore class and all try to be cool and better than who. Well good love
Shirley

Ed,
To one of the neatest guys in the sophomore class. and who does dress rough just like Becky says. I hope you always get the dates you want.

Remember 8th
grade king &
Queen candidates Good luck in basketball and stay with it?
Stay Cool
Love ya?
Mary House

Ed,
I can remember some real silly names we used for you but it looks like you hit the top in spite of it all. You are a really cool guy but don't let it go too far. Still change your effect on people. Stay the same and you'll got it made! I miss living by you. You always brightened the whole day for me! I wish you all the luck in the world!

S. Watch love ya, the beverages! (I) ou drink. They usually contain lots of calories and sugar! I like your bod!

ED
Good luck in the future with anything you so to do Mile (Rabbit)

Ed,
You're one of the neatest sophomores. So always stay neat. Hope will always be friends. Love Good luck in everything you ever do. I'll always remember you and you can count on me as a friend no matter what Melinda
S. S. good - 74 -
Be good. Mel.

To my favorite
H.O.M.O. a kid
I always enjoy picking in the halls remember always Love

Ed,
To a real neat and nice fellow ~~frankie~~ <sup>Sophie</sup>. Just stay the same all your life and I'm sure you'll always be as well liked as I like you now.
Take it easy and be good.

Love ya
Cathy!

Ki Nor!

How ya doin'? I'm O.K. but I can't think of any thing to say right now. Oh...
Good luck and take it easy -
I know you will anyway!

To my old Football Buddy. Hope we have many days of FRIENDSHIP left.

Spaghetti
Eddie
(E.W.)

Ed,
You'll Always be a Special Kind of lover to me cause when we went together you were Always there when I needed you And your ALWAYS around when I need ya now. Don't forget our date. HA! It was fun.
Don't forget our experiences at the hospital. THAT WAS WHAT I CALL devoted love. Kiss and hug!
Love Ya Always,
Connie

Ed,
What ~~was~~ HAVING
You BEEN CALLING 22216.
KEEP Those letters & CARDS COMING Kev

Ed,
To a really cool guy who knows where it's at. We've become great friends in the past few months and I hope to keep it that way. Lots of luck in everything you do. Live to be happy... Everyday.
Don't ever forget me or all of those days at school and at the pool.
I know that I've already said this but, I do want you to have all the luck in the world in everything.

To a real nice guy!
Be good and don't try anything on a girl, that I wouldn't like Buy and be good TAM

Bob! a friend
have for breakfast.
be a super junior. Wake but you've ever got to you want. Maybe if you lots of luck in everything.
So a real cool sophomore.

PS. I love
Ed!!

To Ed
A great kid who can go bars as a shoe salesman.
I'm only kidding.

Ed,

Your a great kid with great looks take care and don't cause to much trouble will have to go out to (soon)
Davis again o.k.

Love

Teresa

Eddie -
The guy with the "coolest" approach
I ever saw.
Mr. Bryant

Ed
To a great
CC + TRACK RUNNER.
MAY YOUR WEIGHT
CARRY YOU A LONG (MILE)
WAYS (YOU GOT ENOUGH)
Jim

Ed,
I'm a great guy and a great friend to everyone
I know.
I'm a great guy and a great friend
